

Race To The Reich Is On

The race to the Reich is on. In all directions the banners of victory are proudly flaunting the might of our arms. The end is now only a matter of weeks.

PATTON MAY BEAT RUSSIA TO BERLIN

It is said that when General Patton landed in France to take charge of the Third American Army, he brandished a 1,000 dollar bill and offered to bet that he would be in Germany before General Montgomery or General Bradley.

The story is probably pure legend. But it is symbolic of the assurance of the man whose armoured columns are now racing ahead east of Paris. Indeed, Patton may yet beat the Red Army generals for the honour of being the first Allied commander to set foot in Germany proper.

Remaining German forces in France are pitifully weak compared with the still mounting strength of the Allied armies of liberation. Rumania's capitulation has exposed the German rift and leaves Hitler as the only safe bet. The Red Army is now pushing Austria and south-eastern Germany.

Now the threatening armies of powerful Allied spearheads are racing at the Reich from east, south-east, south and west. The rumbling and shrieking walls of Hitler's domed "empire" cannot withstand the Allied blast.

By Our Diplomatic Correspondent

THE Nazis must abandon not only all France, but the whole of the Low Countries. They have no option. At the best they can hope to get back into Germany, and some remnants of Hitler's division army. At the worst, they may be able to count on the division of the battered army for the defence of Germany.

But the Nazis are already in certain positions to fight to the death in order to retain the Rhine and the Ruhr. At present the two sides are at a stalemate. The only factor in the German army's favour is the morale of the German army and the German people.

But these suicidal defensive positions cannot last. The Allies are determined to hold the V and V2 launching sites will be used by the Allies to bombard the German coast from the sea and air. The Allies will be quickly exterminated.

SIMPLE AND RUTHLESS. It may be that those mopping-up operations in the West will be delayed, for Montgomery's new vital task is to prevent the collapse of the German army. The Allies are determined to prevent the collapse of the German army.

The last pattern of Allied strategy is now to be seen in all its ruthless simplicity. The Allies are determined to prevent the collapse of the German army. The Allies are determined to prevent the collapse of the German army.

THE Nazis are fighting on two fronts in Russia. That is a sober truth. The British forces are a separate army and have no contact with the armies of the south and east.

THE divisions facing Alexander are more or less isolated. So are the retreating formations in the South of France and in Western France. The Italian garrisons are not only facing a separate war, they are facing a separate war.

Hitler's only hope of giving some semblance of strength to the final defence of the Reich is to save what he can of his scattered and desperate armies and co-ordinate them for the last stand.

It is the Allied aim to prevent the collapse of the German army. It is the Allied aim to prevent the collapse of the German army.

HEAVY BOMBER EXPLODES IN AIR AFTER COLLISION

14 Airmen, Woman and Child Killed: Bungalow Hit

WHEN two American heavy bombers collided in the air near Hitchin, Herts., yesterday, a bomb from one plane fell through the roof of a bungalow, killing a woman and child. Fourteen U.S. airmen also lost their lives; four escaped by parachute.

An eye-witness said that one plane seemed to explode in the air. The other crashed.

The two civilians killed were David Clements and Mrs. Webb. The child had been pushed under a chair for safety by his mother, but the bomb which did not explode struck him and Mrs. Webb.

Other occupants of the bungalow, including Mrs. Webb's mother and Mrs. Webb's thirteen-year-old daughter, escaped with a shaken.

Mr. Charles Grass, an ex-Service man who saw the collision, said the bombers appeared to be following in the direction of my house, so I called my wife out and made her take cover in a ditch.

I saw an airman coming down by parachute, and thinking he might land some distance from me, I ran towards him. At that moment a bomb exploded 20 yards from me, and I lost consciousness.

Very few of the American airmen should be to me to take cover because of danger from bombs falling from the sky. But I did not go off.

FARM DAMAGE. "I was on the airman appeared to be badly burned, and I managed to release him from his harness. He could not use his hands.

He collapsed on the way to the green, and Mr. and Mrs. Pearce helped me to carry him. The bomber, which exploded, did considerable damage to two barns, farm tracks and to a cottage. But there were no casualties there.

A part of one of the machines fell off Red Green, and a half mile away from the point where it had occurred, and set fire to a stack. Harvesting equipment and another stack were also damaged.

The collision was seen by many people working in the fields. Some of them took what- ever they could find from the wreckage and did not stop.

A large number of American Air Force men searched for the wreckage and did not stop.

Carelessness Sends Fire Figures Soaring

Carelessness with cigarette ends and matches, the burning of rubbish near farm stacks and buildings, and children playing with matches are still the principal causes of fires in Great Britain, states the Fire Offices' Committee.

Official figures from 14 fire areas for June show that 1,320 fires were definitely due to carelessness. Of these 562 were caused by carelessness with cigarettes and matches, while children, mis-placed rubbish and matches were responsible for the rest.

In some areas the number due to carelessness has actually increased. In N.P.10, for instance, yesterday. "Reports for June show that in one area alone there were 100 fires.

LOOTER IS FINED £20

FOR stealing two linen sheets from a bombed house, Joseph Franklin, aged fifty-three, of Burnwell, was fined £20, or two months at a South of England police court yesterday.

The chairman said: "We find you guilty of deliberate looting. But for the fact that you have been in one firm for 15 years, and they speak highly of your service, you would have gone to prison."

HE "STARRED" IN REVUE. Former well-known member of Palsairs' "Pals", Morris Harvey, the comedian, has died in Glasgow Hospital at the age of sixty-five. He was "star" comedian in many West End revues, and served in the last war.

BANK CHIEF RETIRES. Joint general manager of Lloyds Bank since 1929, Mr. S. C. Cherrington is retiring on Thursday after nearly 40 years' service. He joined the bank in 1898.

BING CROSBY IS IN LONDON

BING CROSBY, the American crooner, is in London. He arrived by air, through the Hollywood Victory Committee, to entertain troops in the European theatre of operations. Where he is going he does not yet know.

"Since the Army took charge of me," he told "The People," "the whole thing has been clouded in mystery. I thought I was going to the South Pacific, but I landed here.

I have to be back home some time in November. I would like to celebrate the end of the war here and to sing. My own song I am doing some professional work for the Army and the Admiralty Forces Radio.

This is Bing Crosby's first visit to England. He has with him in his company Earl Bazler, accordion player; Buck Harris, guitar player; Jeanne Parker, singer; and Ben Garner, dancer, and Joe de Rita, comedian.

He has not been widely recognized yet in London. He was in Hyde Park this morning, but only had American money. The chair attendant came along, but he did not recognize him, but about the time he was carrying on.

"I have heard a lot about the flying bomb," Bing said, "but I appear to have arrived at a lucky time and have not experienced any yet."

He wants to do some sight-seeing, hopes to see a football match, and to play golf on British links. He also wants to see the racetracks at Ascot and Aintree.

West-End Modes For Europe's Women

Women and children in the Liberated Countries of Europe will soon be wearing clothes from West End shops and British chain stores.

The garments are being collected by the Drapers' Guild of Trade.

Mr. Bernard Ebb, chairman of the War Executive Committee of the Chamber, told "The People" yesterday.

"We in this country do not realize the sufferings and privations of the peoples of Europe. The retail trade is glad to be able to make sacrifices to help these people, and no doubt, the public will be glad to do so."

Need for extra labour is so urgent, it was announced yesterday, that the War Department and the Ministry of Labour have agreed to allow management of certain war industries to grant an extra week's leave during September or October to any employees who can be spared, provided they spend at a volunteer agricultural unit.

Only a limited number of firms will be notified and management will have the right to refuse leave. Pay will be at agricultural rates.

£15 A WEEK AT 19

A nineteen-year-old Irish labourer said at Old-st, yesterday that he was earning £15 a week.

"But," he added, "£7 5s. 4d. goes in for rent, and I have to do 110 hours to get it."

MILLIONS Don't Buy Full Ration

MILLIONS of people are not buying their full food rations—and Government food and diet experts are trying to find out why.

Biggest surprise is that when the bacon ration was raised to 6 oz. many people still bought only 4 oz.

Millions of people, too, are not taking up their full cheese ration, jam ration, or sweet ration.

Many families have arranged their diet so that 4 oz. of bacon is enough.

On the other hand, heavy meat eaters are not buying the whole 6 oz., but are still buying unadvisedly full boiled bacon as well.

The heavy workers, too, are buying their full allowance of cheese.

The new prince, who is fifth in the line of succession, was born in St. Matthew's Nursing Home, Northampton. He is the second royal prince to be born in a nursing home, the other being his brother, Prince William.

The following bulletin was issued from St. James' Palace, the Duke of London's residence:

"St. James' Palace. "Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Gloucester has safely delivered of a son at 12.13 o'clock this afternoon."

The condition of Her Royal Highness and the infant prince is satisfactory.

The present intention is for the Duchess and her new baby to accompany the Duke and his wife to Australia later in the year to take up his post as Governor-General of the Commonwealth.

A FAMILY AFFAIR

Wives in Court I CAUGHT my husband kissing my sister, and he said it was only one of his ways of showing his affection for me.

My husband is on the Stock Exchange and always acts like a bull or a bear.

We had to turn my husband out of the chateau. He snored so much we couldn't hear the fly bombs coming.

And Husbands My wife can't understand me, but she says half-hour cannot last for ever.

Wives make life so much more difficult by asking a lot of silly questions.

When my wife reads that a woman whose husband has deserted her had the nerve to sue for herself and his, for each of their children she might be a sport and desert me.

When I asked my wife how she felt about the war, she said: "Better than I expected. Mrs. Brown has Mrs. Jones and the others joined in."

"Fake" Ration Cards From Skies

Allied airmen are causing great confusion in German cities by dropping ration cards in the streets.

So many of these have been dropped at the shops by the airmen that shopkeepers now insist on seeing ration cards before they will exchange them for goods.

Her teeth are YOUR concern—

Every mother wants her children to grow up with strong, firm, white teeth, safe from the danger of decay. That's why she uses the use of the toothpaste containing "Milk of Magnesia", which corrects acid mouth, often the cause of dental trouble. The toothpaste to ask for is Phillips' Dental Magnesia. Children love its pleasant, mild flavour.

DOES IT TELL YOU

A PHASE of history of greater import than almost any other of this war is being written. Those ancient foes, the Vatican and the Kremlin, are nearing an "understanding." Few would believe this, but it is a real event, not even that negotiations were taking place.

Affecting, as it must, constitutional issues in U.S.S.R. and the future of Poland, Italy, and other one-time Axis satellites, it is an event of great importance, and one that will undoubtedly influence the course of the war.

At the moment, note the fact. Early 1945 will show the results of the war, and the policy-makers of the world will be able to see the results of the war.

Marching beside this trend in the policy-makers of the world, down by the most dangerous of all.

One thing is certain, and later events will cause these words to be remembered: that the German denouement of approximately September 1945 marks the ultimate of treachery and the end of the war.

By then, on this side, another astonishing Allied thrust will have driven home, and the war will be over.

Incidentally, the period mentioned is of great significance for General Monrovia. His great honors, but I expect him to open a new phase in his career.

We have to think of his major work in 1945, this war, not enough in the year of 1946.

What, may it, should, be said about forthcoming Allied operations, but it is not an important decision on Russia's attitude towards the Far East.

Having taken this, I look forward to the change in attitude towards Japan, which would hold us as long as was expected. Indeed, the next week or two of the war, commercial chiefs in Tokyo working together.

The onset of "tangible" (terms) can be seen. It is a fact that the war is over, and the war is over.

What happens then will decide whether Britain's friendship is something which has to be earned, or whether she is running around on a pedestal.

BUSY TIME COMING FOR NEWMARKET

By LARRY LYNN

NEWMARKET, sleepy town in Suffolk when the winter winds blow, will be a perfect hive of industry and activity from now until the Dewhursts are run on an open market.

At about the St. Leger (September 16), there will be open races on the famous July course which is expected to provide thrills and excitement for the thousands of spectators who will be in the town and city are going to be the favorites for next year's Derby and Oaks.

BUTEN three-year-olds in the market can expect the Champion to be a very good horse. He will be a very good horse, and he will be a very good horse.

AND all the excitement will not be over until the market is over. The market is over, and the market is over.

SO far I have seen the complete sales catalogue, but I have not seen the market. I have not seen the market, and I have not seen the market.

THERE is plenty of money in the market, and the market is over. The market is over, and the market is over.

DURING sales week Newmarket will be a very good horse. He will be a very good horse, and he will be a very good horse.
